

The Kidologist's Top Ten Websites for Children's Ministers

1. Kidology.org
Since 1994 the leading children's ministry website with more features than can be listed in a single sentence. If you could only have one site, this would be it. However, since you can have more:
2. CMconnect.org
The newest CM site, like Facebook for Children's Ministry leaders.
3. Children's Ministry University Online
Earn a children's ministry degree online. Excellent courses!
4. TodaysChildrensMinistry.com
Primarily articles but offers some affordable training tools as well.
5. BiblicalParenting.org
The best place for resources for equipping and supporting parents in the church. Fantastic e-mail newsletter with parenting tips you can pass on in your own communication.
6. ChildrensMinistry.com - Children's Ministry Magazine
The standard bearer of children's ministry with a battalion of resources from its standard magazine, professional edition, books, resources, curriculum and conferences.
7. KidzMatter.com & K! Magazine
Creative media teaching resources and the new K! Magazine provides a fresh perspective from many new voices.
8. HarvestBooks.org for books, curriculum & more
The trusted source for discounted children's curriculum from all major publishers plus nearly any book you may be looking for. Known for the personal attention they give their customers.
9. JellyTelly.com & JellyBits.com
The latest online video channel from Phil Vischer (Creator of VeggieTales) and a place where you can purchase videos to use in your own ministry.
10. ToyBoxTales.com Toys Teaching Biblical Truths
Karl never imagined this teaching tool he created for the kids of his own church would gain a cult following and end up having videos being shown in hundreds of churches across America.
